18-Day Crime Spree Ends

Desperado Surrenders, Outwitted by Farmwife

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. (AP) — Douglas Wayne Thompson's 18-day crime spree is over. The California desperado, accused of two slayings in a week, was talked into surrendering by a persuasive farmwife who outwitted him.

The 27-year-old gunman once vowed he's never be taken alive. He was captured Friday unharmed, except for a tape bandage on his nose. A bullet grazed him in the last of three gun battles with southeast Missouri law enforcement officers. He eluded officers in a week-long extensive manhunt.

Murder Warrant Sought

Two persons, one a policeman, were killed. Four others, three of them law officers, were wounded. One is in serious condition.

Authorities sought a murder warrant today against Thompson in the slaying Friday of Raymond S. Glover, 45.

Thompson hitched a ride with Glover and offered him $5 to drive him to Poplar Bluff. Minutes later Glover was fatally wounded when Thompson shot it out with trooper Glen E. Davis, who became suspicious.

Davis was slightly wounded and Thompson fled in his patrol car to a farm house four miles away. There Eva Clananan, about 70, was talking on the phone with her daughter when Thompson walked in, gun in hand.

Woman Reacts Quickly

Mrs. Clananan thought quickly, then said: "I don't want those groceries, but get me some other groceries out here, real quick."

Her daughter, Mrs. Verna Hudson of Poplar Bluff, who operates a grocery store with her husband, took the hint and called police. Officers quickly surrounded the house, just north of Poplar Bluff. Mrs. Clananan told the gunman, "You have some life left, let's not have any shooting." Thompson then surrendered.

Mrs. Clananan said Thompson gave her $1.42. She turned it over to authorities. Officers said it was looted from various cross-country robberies.

Two Others Seized

Thompson and a partner, Sammy A. Tucker, 26, of Fresno, Calif., are charged with first degree murder in the slaying of Herbert L. Goss, 67, an auxiliary Cape Girardeau policeman, last Friday. Patrolman Don Crittenton, 25, was seriously wounded.

Tucker was captured last Saturday, as was Calvin W. Johnson, 22, a crony in their escape from jail at San Luis Obispo, Calif., Feb. 27.

Two More Arrested In Burglary Drive

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — A man and a woman were under arrest today on charges of bribing a Motor Vehicle Department security officer in an alleged attempt to obtain a renewal of the man's revoked driver's license.

The arrest Friday came several weeks after the department charged nine examiners in its Bronx office with accepting bribes.

Two Give $300

Adrian J. Rose, 48, of Binghamton, a building contractor and Miss Iva M. Apgar, 45, of Endicott were arrested in a restaurant after security officer Alfred Trakes said they gave him $300.

Rose lost his license in 1955.

A department spokesman said Rose wanted his record of 12 convictions since 1949 on various motor vehicle charges removed from the department's files.

The department had refused several times to renew the license because of the record, the spokesman said. He said that, since the revocation, Rose had been convicted four times for driving without a license and once again for driving while intoxicated.

The spokesman told this story: Rose and Miss Apgar came to Albany with the intention of contacting someone useful in the department. They telephoned a woman who works with department files but she refused to help them.

The couple then telephoned a male clerk, who said he would let them know. The clerk informed a department security officer, who instructed the clerk to cooperate with Rose and Miss Apgar.

Meeting Set Up

The clerk set up a meeting with the pair in a restaurant. Trakes met them instead.

Trakes accepted the money while John Thompson, another security officer, looked on.

Rose and Miss Apgar pleaded innocent in Police Court and were sent to the Albany County Jail. No bail was set.

The department did not disclose the names of the employees the spokesman said were contacted by Rose and Miss Apgar.

Chichester Fire Forces Family Out

A fire which started in the chimney of a two-story frame dwelling in Chichester late Friday morning caused extensive damage to the upper portion of the structure and forced the occupants to seek other shelter last night.

The home, located near Route 214, is owned by Mrs. Paul Fichtner. It is near the Chichester Wood Products factory.

It was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. James Van Wagner and their pre-school age son. It was reported to The Freeman that the family stayed overnight with relatives.

The fire spread from the chimney through the attic and into the roof, it was reported.

The Phoenix Fire Company responded and brought the fire under control. The first floor suffered smoke and water damage.

DeFelicia, a village trustee, received the nomination on the Peoples' Party ticket supplanting Vaughn. Mayor Vaughn later announced he would seek reelection on the Independent ticket.

Running unopposed for the two year trusteeship is Charles D. George of the People's Party.

Rosendale village voters will cast ballots at the village room in the firehouse from 5 to 9 p.m.

There will be contests in two of the four incorporated villages in Ulster County holding elections Tuesday. The incumbent mayor and police justice in Rosendale will be opposed and two slates will be on the ballot in Ellenville.

One report said 28 persons were murdered at a big coffee plantation near Quixote, less than 150 miles northeast of this coastal city. A young girl was reportedly cut in half near Vieje. One mutilated settler died after being evacuated here.

Portuguese colonial rulers here turned to armed might in hopes of ending the Mau-Mau type of slavery. The same planes that rushed in troops brought back terrorized settlers.

Faced with the prospect of growing Congo-like massacres, colonial authorities here in the capital said today they can put down the bloody antiwhite uprising despite the hindrance of torrential rain.

No Findings Yet On Span Victim Found on Friday

Results of an autopsy performed on the body of a young woman identified as Rachel Perry, 18, of Poughkeepsie, who plunged 200 feet from the Mid-Hudson Bridge last Dec. 22 was still unavailable this morning.

Dr. Chester H. Golding Jr., Dutchess County medical examiner, told The Freeman this morning he was not yet prepared to release his findings in the autopsy performed at Vassar Hospital.

No Skull Fracture

Dr. Golding said a preliminary examination disclosed no skull fracture.

The body of the young woman, native of Gansevoort, was recovered from the Hudson River about a half mile south of the bridge early Friday afternoon.

Dutchess County District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta said the body was identified by Miss Perry's sister, Mrs. Clarence Bishop, an employee of Harlem Valley State Hospital, Wingdale.

Indictment Likely

David Amesse, 20, an unemployed truck driver, of Staatsburg, was in Dutchess County jail in $25,000 bail on warrant charging him with the girl's slaying. (Continued on Page 5, Col. 4)

March 29 Dinner

Trinity Pastor Is Next Speaker for 1st Baptist Men

REV. ROY A. HASSEL

One of Kingston's newest members of the clergy—the Rev. Roy A. Hassel, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church—will be the guest speaker for members of the Men's Club of First Baptist Church Wednesday night, March 29.

A dinner will open the program at 6:30 p. m., followed by a talk by the Rev. Mr. Hassel on The Christian Concern for the JD.

Arthur T. Pedersen, ticket chairman, reports that tickets are now in the hands of the regular committee. Reservations for the dinner must be made by Sunday night, March 26.

The Rev. Mr. Hassel, who was one of the speakers for this year's union Lenten services sponsored by the Kingston Area Council of Churches, is native of White Plains.

His appointment to the pastorate of the downtown charge was made public Sept. 24, 1960.

The Trinity Methodist cleric is a graduate of Cornell University where he received his BS degree and Drew University where he received his ED degree.

Avid Sports Enthusiast

The Rev. Mr. Hassel, an avid sports enthusiast, formerly served as interim chaplain at the National Training School for Boys in Washington, D. C., a school for juvenile delinquents, as a part of post-graduate training in the field of counseling.

While at the Ithaca university, the Rev. Mr. Hassel was a member of the Cornell crew team for four years. He also holds a pilot's license.

During his Cornell studies, the downtown minister served four small churches outside Ithaca on the Mecklenberg parish. From September 1957 to June 1960, he was student assistant at the Floral Park Methodist Church, Floral Park, L. I.

Thus the task facing translators over the centuries has been to keep the words of Luke and the other Biblical authors as understandable and as accurate as they were to those who first read them in which they were written.

Two groups of scholars, one Roman Catholic and the other Protestant, have published new translations which critics say accomplish the twofold-end better than any previous efforts.

Contemporary Language

Both works have scholarship as their hallmark, and both are written in contemporary English style which gives a freshness to the familiar Bible stories.

They are a New Testament translation by scholars of the Protestant churches of the British Isles, and an Old Testament translation sponsored by the Roman Catholic Confraternity of Christian Doctrine.

New knowledge of the Biblical languages gained in recent years (from such sources as Dead Sea scrolls, to name one) have given modern translators better tools for accuracy than even the respected authors of either the Protestant King James Version or the Catholic Douay-Rheims Version.

Each of the new works has copious footnotes for the benefit of the scholarly, but for the average layman their distinguishing characteristic is the modern phraseology.

Here is a typical example of how the New English Bibles puts into everyday English the language of the King James Version:

Versions Compared

King James Version—Then answered Peter and said unto him, Declare unto us this parable. And Jesus said, are ye also yet without understanding? (Matt. 15:16)

New English Bible—Then Peter said, Tell us what the parable means? Jesus answered, Are you still as dull as the rest?

By the same token, the modern idioms of the Confraternity version gives a new smoothness to this typical selection from the familiar story of the fiery furnace (Daniel 3:19).

Douay Version—Then was Nabuchodonosor filled with fury; and the countenance of his face was changed against Sidrach, Misach and Abdenago.

Confraternity Version — Nabuchodonosor's face became livid with utter rage against Sidrach, Misach and Abdenago.

Both new works are fresh translations, not revisions of previous translations.

These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

HISTORY WITHOUT DOCUMENTS
It was at the Teheran Conference (1943) that Stalin first met Roosevelt and Churchill together. Churchill had been to Russia earlier and he met the Georgian; however, to Roosevelt he was not known. It is clear from what is available about Teheran that it was at this meeting that Roosevelt agreed to give to Stalin a large part of Europe and Asia. Although the Yalta Conference occurred after Teheran, the Yalta Papers have been published by the State Department but Teheran is still supposed to be secret.

Recently, it was stated and denied that General Eisenhower, when he left the White House, took the Teheran Papers with him. Eisenhower said that he had not done so. Those papers, in no manner, are the property of Eisenhower. They are State Department documents, still secret, and General Eisenhower, as a private citizen, has no more right to them than you or I. His denial must be taken on its face and it must be assumed that all these documents are in their proper place in the State Department archives and that they will one day be published.

However, it needs to be noted that they cannot be destroyed because the British and Russians have these Teheran Papers and some, if not all of them, have been seen by private persons in this country and elsewhere. The only purpose for suppressing them would be to save the reputations of the persons who attended this conference. Congress has authorized their publication; nevertheless, they have been suppressed. From the standpoint of history, nobody's reputation can ever be saved by violating documents because the historian ultimately gets at the facts.

Until the Teheran Papers are published completely, most of the judgements of the American people on the relations between the United States and Soviet Russia will be based on lack of accurate information.

There must be a purpose in suppressing these documents. Is it to save the reputations of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Winston Churchill? Is it to prove that in their various public statements and books, these statesmen told the truth? Is it to save the reputation of General George Marshall? If those in charge of such matters have no reason for suppressing the truth why do they do it?

The public official who set up the Teheran Conference was Averell Harriman, presently President Kennedy's roving Ambassador. Harriman has matured considerably since his early days in public life. He knows what happened at Teheran and undoubtedly has kept notes or a diary or he may even have copies of some documents. Harriman is one of the few top men alive to tell the tale. The American people have the right to know what happened at this conference that changed the world and that laid down principles and agreements over which the Cold War has been continuous since 1945.

The Cold War has three sides: our side, the Russian side, and the neutral side. Our side is that we believe that we know and we state it to be that at Potsdam, Soviet Russia agreed to conditions of conquest which the Russians have violated. Their side, we do not know and cannot know until we have before us the Teheran Papers which, if published in full, will give us the agreements and understandings among Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin. In a word, are the Russians bluffing or were promises made to them which have not been lived up to, or are we complaining about acts of aggression on the part of Soviet Russia to which we agreed when the war was still on?

To understand the character of the Cold War and the Russian insistence that it be prolonged, even against their interests, one is forced to believe that there must be a reason for their attitude. That reason is to be found in the Teheran Papers. As one reads the Yalta Papers, it becomes clear that Yalta was a prolongation and a correction of Teheran. But what happened at Potsdam, where Harry Truman, unfamiliar with both the Teheran and Yalta Conferences, was confronted by prior agreements? He never agreed to a Summit Conference after that. President Eisenhower went to one Summit Conference and came off with little benefit and at the second one he was abused and belittled. What card does Khrushchev hold that he dared to humiliate the President of the United States? I think the answer will be found in the Teheran Papers.

EAGER NEWS COVERAGE
The National District Attorneys Association in annual conference has just hopped on the press for "sensationalizing criminal cases and trying defendants before the case comes to court." Although this is the sort of shotgun blast that hits the innocent as well as the guilty, perhaps there is some justification for it.

But there is another side to the matter. Any newsman past the cub stage can recall cases where reporters themselves have helped solve crimes, prevented miscarriage of justice and aided proper law enforcement in numerous other ways.

A case comes to mind. A woman was headed for conviction and life imprisonment as her husband's slayer, but the evidence was so circumstantial that one reporter could not swallow it. On his own he went out and dug up the truth. It proved that the husband had committed suicide. The woman went free.

The American public demands swift and complete news coverage. Under such pressure news reporters may at times become over-zealous. But the situation has its good points as well as its bad ones.

NEW YORKERS PAY MORE

The Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, Inc. points out that President Kennedy's plan to give $2,300 million over the next three years for aid to education would cost New York taxpayers $2.37 for every $1 of aid received in 1962.

On an overall basis, New York's share of the federal aid-to-education plan in 1962 would be $37,650,000, but the state's share of the total tax burden would be $89,088,000.

New York State residents should take a deep interest in Federal spending plans because of the heavy tax burden it will place upon them.

There's one advantage in a man's having his nose to the grindstone. He can't poke it into other people's business.

PLAY SAFE, BE SAFE

A letter from a friend in Los Angeles reports:

"The weather here is gorgeous and I had every intention of spending this past weekend in Palm Springs with my wife. We needed to get away."

"We took the Hollywood freeway but didn't even reach downtown L.A. The car in front of me stopped, but the car behind me didn't."

"Thanks to seat belts neither my wife nor I were hurt but our car will require at least $1,000 worth of repairs."

"May I suggest that you or anyone you know put seat belts in your car. The police agree with us that without those belts my dear wife could have been badly injured, not to mention yours truly."

"Nuff said!"

THERE'S A NEW use being proposed for all the courtyards in the big, hollow square government buildings. Most of these courts are being used as parking lots. The New Frontier idea is to convert them all into touch football fields.

They would be known as adult playgrounds and fit right into the administration's youth fitness program.

Mrs. Helen Mann writes that she received a letter of thanks from a former Kingsonian who has been for many years a movie actor in Hollywood, Chick Chandler. She had written him a letter of congratulations on the success of his new TV show, "One Happy Family."

One function of an opposition party is to watch and criticize. But it has another essential function. It must provide an alternative to which the people can readily turn.

For the farmer and his wife in Nebraska, I wonder whether all these natural resources will be of much help to them? For the businessman with money, who can purchase large acreage for an extensive cattle ranch or orange and other fruit groves, there is still an opportunity for health, power, and prosperity in California. Few investment bargains, however, exist at the moment; although they will appear again when the next depression comes. A large amount of money is borrowed on California enterprises, and most of these mortgages are held by one or two great California banks which could be very tough if the tide turned against them.

For the farmer and his wife in moderate circumstances who want only a winter home or place to retire to—California may not be the state. Prices are high, and there is a shortage of houses in most sections. If you have friends living in some small California city—preferably near the coast—and they know of some reasonably priced home, it might be well to go out and look it over. BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass., March 16 — As I write this column, thousands of farmers and their wives in the snow-packed Central West are insisting they will never spend another winter on the farm. They are agreeing to spend their winters in California or Florida, and are trying to decide which it will be. Here is a brief, but impartial, answer.

What About Florida?

Outside of sunshine and a fair rainfall, Florida has only a few natural advantages. It has no coal; no waterpower; no natural gas, except that being brought in by pipeline; and most important of all, Florida has not yet discovered oil. Some years ago oil was found in South Florida around the town of Sunnall and a few wells nearby were drilled and produced oil. This caused the great Florida oil boom. Nearly all the large oil companies sent representatives to do so for the remainder of my life, I often wish I had been born in California! It is a wonderful state, with tropical climate in the south, snow in the north, and any climate between these which anyone could wish. It has a long coastline, a desert interior, and great mountains. The only out is Los Angeles, with its crowded population, terrific transportation problem, its "smog," etc.

Small industries are starting up in Florida, using electricity. Orlando and Tampa are rapidly becoming industrialized, while Jacksonville is a great jobbing center. Florida is a state of small homes; in fact, just now there is a surplus of small houses. Therefore, for farmers of the Central West and the East who want a winter home free from snow, or for retired families who would get a check from the north every month, I surely advise one of the small cities of Florida. Perhaps it would be cheaper to buy a house already built than to buy a vacant lot. But I do not advise buying a Florida home without seeing the actual property. There surely is a surplus of motels and subdivisions. Nevertheless, I believe that a man with a check coming in every month would never regret moving to Florida.

Is it too Late to Move to California?

As I think of the farmer and his wife in Nebraska, I wonder whether all these natural resources will be of much help to them?

Man Trapped 18 Hours Loses Leg

Chicago (AP)—Surgeons have amputated the left leg of William McCoy, a wrecking company employee rescued from the rubble of a collapsed building where he was pinned 18 hours.

The amputation was performed Friday several hours after McCoy, 23, was eased from the debris after long hours of painstaking digging by rescuers.

Later Friday, firemen removed the body of Alfred Mack, 57, of St. Anne, Ill., who died during the rescue attempt. His body had hung head down, his legs crushed beneath heavy beams.

Rescue workers continued to search for the body of Robert Walker, 31, of Chicago, missing and presumed dead. He is McCoy's brother-in-law.

The four-story building, formerly a sausage factory, collapsed Thursday while 28 members of a wrecking crew were ripping timbers from its street level floor. Besides McCoy, 14 were injured, five seriously.

Shortly before doctors amputated McCoy's leg he talked to reporters, describing his long wait in freezing weather.

He told of efforts to stand the pain of his crushed leg, first by smoking cigarettes to keep his mind on something else, then by concentrating on prayer.

"I prayed. I prayed all the time," he said.

Soldiers and paratroopers rushed northward faced the job of flushing the raiders from hiding places in dense forests.

Africans who work the plantations and belong to central African tribes were reportedly quiet while the northern tribesmen attacked homes and sabotaged roads and bridges.

Commercial airliners touched down at Luanda Airfield in a huge refugee airlift. Fleeing settlers crammed truck after truck for the ride into Luanda, where they told how Negroes hacked to death every white they saw.

The raids were similar to the Mau-Mau attacks that plagued British-ruled Kenya a few years ago. Hundreds of tribesmen descended suddenly during early morning darkness Wednesday, slashing and murdering with their long knives in planters' homes near Maquela, Uige, Quibayi and Quitece.

Some of the refugees bore the savage wounds of machetes and many flew here without a single possession. Nine badly mutilated persons came in on the first planes Wednesday night. One of them died after arriving.

Democrats have proposed that the state enact standby legislation to take advantage of President Kennedy's unemployment extension program now being considered by Congress.

Probes Pay to Dewey

TOKYO (AP)—Parliament was under pressure today to investigate the reported payment of $200,000 a year to former New York Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to promote Japanese exports in the United States.

Dewey has been retained since June, 1959 by Jetro, the government-backed Japan Export Trade who complained his fee is too high.

assigned there is not available. The department also said there had been no new, sudden stepup in arms deliveries.

Sources here said the figure of an additional 100 Americans was pretty close to the mark. As for the volume of arms aid, these sources said there had been no over-all boost in the program but that the movement of gear was being accelerated so the Laotian troops would get now some of what they were due to get later.

In speaking of what he called the "upside down, topsy-turvy quality of the Laotian picture," one official said a major problem is to improve the training of officers and noncommissioned officers.

Development Assistance Group (DAG) session March 27-29.

En route, Ball plans to stop off at Bonn March 20-22 and Paris March 23-26 to talk over aid problems with officials in those capitals.

The 10-nation DAG so far has been mainly a discussion group for foreign aid questions faced by the industrial nations. Under the new Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD), which has just been ratified by the U. S. Senate, the DAG would become one of the principal committees of the new international economic organization.

U. S. authorities said Ball, in behalf of the United States, expects to propose at London that the DAG become a clearing house for all foreign aid activities of free world countries.

The U. S. envoy was said also to be planning to discuss greater sharing of the aid burden by other advanced nations.

Some Bad Signs

the preceding week and 12 per cent from the comparable 1960 week.

Underscoring the gravity of unemployment, pegged at above 5.7 million, the Labor Department said one of every four auto workers is idle and one of every six steel workers.

Upholds Hodges' Views

But on balance, events seemed to support a widely discussed remark by Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges that "We've hit the bottom" of the recession.

Hodges gave his view several days before the main signposts of encouragement appeared. He relied mostly on hunch, encouraging retail trade figures and the conviction inventory shrinkage had about reached its limits.

Almost as Hodges spoke, a big New York bank — the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. — said that economic clouds appeared to be lifting and the business contraction to be at or near its bottom.

Retail auto sales, at 15,717 a day in the first third of March, represented a 4.3 per cent improvement over the February pace. Ford and Rambler sales were especially brisk.

Ford promptly announced a 25 per cent increase in April-June production plans, representing about $5,000 additional vehicles.

Chrysler Corp. and Studebaker decided earlier to step up March assemblies.

Raises Hope on Orders

This raised hopes of more orders for steel mills, and a quickening of business in the rubber, glass, plastics and accessory fields.

The Federal Reserve Board reported on the industrial production situation.

At 102 per cent of the 1957 average, the output of mines, mills and materials were far below the record level of January 1960—111 per cent of 1957. But it held steady on the plane of January 1961.

Volume on the New York Stock Exchange was 26,461,491 shares compared with 29,026,120 the week before.

Bond volume fell to $38,944,000 par value from $48,943,000 last week—a 15 year high.

Briefly Around

Briefly around the business scene: The first in threatened damage suits against electrical equipment makers convicted of price-fixing was filed jointly by Uncle Sam and TVA, asking a total of $12 million from General Electric and four other firms.

Former Vice President Richard Nixon put in his first day back at private practice of law with a Los Angeles firm. Lockheed Aircraft Corp. was picked by the Air Force to build $1 billion in military jet transport planes.

Travelers Insurance Co. received a contract for $2.3 billion in group life insurance covering for 575,000 railroad employees and their families. U. S. Rubber Co. increased passenger car tire prices up to 5 per cent and truck tires 2½ per cent effective April 1.

The government awarded transcontinental air routes across the southern tier of states to Delta and National air lines.

Diplomats Seek Formula

The royal Laotian army numbers about 29,000 of whom some 5,000 have had the rudiments of training while perhaps 800 to 1,000 have undergone unit drills.

According to U. S. estimates, the Pathet Lao totals perhaps 8,000 to 10,000 with possibly 2,000 to 2,500 of them thoroughly indoctrinated Communists.

Utica Raid Nets Man

UTICA, N. Y. (AP)—City and state police arrested one man today in a pre-dawn gambling raid. Police questioned 14 others.

Joseph Santalucia, 32, of Utica, pleaded guilty to a charge of maintaining a premises for gambling. He was fined $250 and placed on probation by City Court Judge Matthew Ogonski Sr.

Police said Santalucia rented an apartment in downtown Utica where a poker game was in progress when they raided the rooms.

Rusk Assistant Off for Europe On Aid Problem

WASHINGTON (AP)—Undersecretary of State George Ball leaves for Europe today on a mission aimed at improving free world aid and getting other industrial countries to step up their share.

Home Extension Service News

Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent of the Ulster County Extension Service Association, submits the following article:

Prof. Uri Bronfenbrenner will be one of the speakers at the one-day Institute, planned for March 23 by the New York State College of Home Economics at Cornell University. His topic will be "How Russians Build Character."

Prof. Bronfenbrenner is a social psychologist and a specialist in child development and family relationships. He traveled unescorted in Russia last summer under a grant from the Society for Investigation of Human Ecology. Because he knows the language, he was able to talk directly with many of the people. He observed that a great deal of affection and attention are given young children by all members of society.

According to the most recent research, such love-oriented techniques of child rearing result in milder, less aggressive personalities than those from homes where achievement is stressed. Thus in Russia, the professor noted a profound conformity to values and goals—individualism is frowned on.

Prof. Bronfenbrenner will consider the effects such child rearing may have on character. The extreme permissiveness with children, advocated in recent years, may produce young people who are less likely to take initiative, who may look to others for direction and decision, and who cannot always be counted on to fulfill obligations.

Parent-Child Relationship

If you as a parent are puzzled sometimes by your child's behavior, you will be interested in Cornell bulletin 420, "Principles for Child Guidance."

Here are given not only principles for guidance but methods of procedure. Through affection, respect, aid, and approval, our children can learn to be secure, self-confident, keen in learning, and to aspire to worthy achievements.

INVITING BOY FRIEND'S PARENTS TO DINNER

Q: I have been going out with a boy whom I like very much, for the past six months. We are not engaged. I have been invited to his house on quite a few occasions and his parents have always been very nice to me. I would like my parents to meet them. Would it be proper for my mother to invite them to our house some evening for dinner?

A: Unless it is at the boy's suggestion, or his parents have expressed a wish to meet your parents, I would not advise your mother to invite his parents as this might seem to be pushing on her part.

Wedding Announcements

Q: My fiance and I are having a disagreement about the following: We are to be married in about a month and we are going to have a small wedding with just the immediate families in attendance. I feel that because we are having a small wedding we should send out announcements of our marriage to friends and relatives who will not be at the wedding. My fiance feels that we should not because it will seem as if we are asking for wedding gifts. We would appreciate your advice on this matter.

A: Your fiance is mistaken. A wedding announcement requires no gift or acknowledgment and is sent to all your friends and relatives who are not invited to the wedding.

Invitation Stipulates "Black Tie"

Q: Printed in the corner of a wedding invitation that my husband and I received are the words, "Black Tie." I would like to know if it would be permissible for my husband to wear a new dark business suit with a bow tie, or does it mean "tuxedo only"? Also must I wear an evening dress or would a dressy afternoon dress be all right?

A: "Black tie" means that the men are requested to wear tuxedos and the women evening dresses. If you and your husband go to the wedding you should both accede to this request.

Battle Lines Clearly Drawn For Onteora Bond Issue Vote

A panel discussion sponsored by the Willow Lake Hill, Shady Taxpayers Association this week, indicated that, with the vote on the Onteora school bond issue only three weeks away, the battle lines are clearly drawn.

It can reasonably be expected that all the major issues involved in the $1,016,500 bond issue vote April 10 have been joined.

The administration and Board of Education is pressing three main points in seeking a favorable vote on the issue.

Judging from statements by OCS spokesmen at several public forums in recent weeks it is evident that the Board of Education is relying heavily on the following arguments to bolster its case:

1) The need for additional classrooms has been justified beyond question of doubt. The 19 rooms provided in the bond issue will be needed for pupils already accounted for by the population study.

2) The Board has proved to the satisfaction of everyone concerned that double sessions are costly, create great inconvenience to pupils and families and create sub-standard education.

3) The Board feels that further elementary expansion on the Boiceville site is impractical and is according to State Education Department suggestions that the site be used only for secondary expansion in the future. In this connection, Board and administration spokesmen have rejected as "illusory and misleading" statements by the opposition that a saving of $200,000 could be effected by adding to the Reginald R. Bennett School instead of building the new eight room school in Phoenicia.

4) The Board has responded quickly and sharply to charges by bond issue opponents that the Epstein site in Phoenicia is subject to flooding and water hazard.

Opposition Points

Opponents of the bond issue appeared to be centering their attack on the following items:

1) There is no justification in building a new school in Phoenicia, when $200,000 could be saved by adding on to the Bennett school.

2) Expansion in the Phoenicia area is unrealistic since it is, in effect, building away from the school population growth.

3) There is justification for an extra boiler at Woodstock, but none for the new school at Phoenicia.

4) There is a water and flood hazard on the Phoenicia site and there is questions whether the owner of the property will fix a road of several hundred feet at his own expense.

In the largely attended Lake Hill forum, the taxpayers association offered its facilities so that interested persons could hear both sides of the story. It is not known whether the association

Taxes was also brought out into the open. Gordon told the group that the $461,958,000 paid in school taxes by the Town of Olive in 1960, the City of New York accounted for $396,405,000. Other utilities like state of New York, Central Hudson, railroad and telephone company paid an additional $11,692 or approximately 88.3 percent of the 44.7 percent of the OCS tax bill paid by Olive. Of the 1,439 taxable properties in Olive, Gordon said 1,062 (or 73.5 percent) were only assessed between $50 and $500. Nearly 91 percent of the properties are assessed less than $500.

Lawrence Casey, president of the taxpayers association, served as moderator for the meeting.

Question Box On Bond Issue

The following is a continuation of the Bond Issue Question Box dealing with the upcoming vote (April 10) on the $1,016,500 construction program in the Onteora Central Schools District.

either a morning or an afternoon session. A teacher may not be compelled to work both sessions.

Q. Will a double session schedule necessitate increased transportation cost?

A. Yes. Double sessions will necessitate establishing triple bus routes in this district. It is estimated this additional cost would be approximately $80,000 for the school year 1962-63.

Q. Will taxes increase if the construction program is not approved?

A. Yes, with increasing enrollment and inflationary costs, it is expected that school expenditures will rise yearly. Placing children on double sessions will not alter this situation. Double sessions will cost the district approximately the same amount yearly as will the cost of classroom construction. Also, double session costs do not provide for equity in a permanent building that he had tossed around.

The administration has contended right along that the $200,000 figure is "illusory and misleading" and does not take into account the heavy extra costs that would be required to complete a 21-room operation at the Bennett school. Fox and Dibbell were equally insistent that it could be done for the $261,000 figure.

Dibbell said there is room for an extra boiler at the Bennett school, the sewage facilities are satisfactory, there is provision for a kindergarten on the east side of the building, the boiler room can take added boiler and conduits for power are available.

President Gordon dissented from Dibbell's statement and said "the mountain is still there" a reference to extensive site work that would be needed to accommodate 21 rooms.

The question of proportionate taxes was also brought out into the open. Gordon told the group that the $461,958,000 paid in school taxes by the Town of Olive in 1960, the City of New York accounted for $396,405,000. Here is another team of four hands in which both South players landed at six clubs after a preemptive heart jump overall by West.

As you can see, the contract is very optimistic and can only be made if West opens a spade. Sure enough one West player did open the spade king. South won the trick with dummy's ace and eventually led a spade from dummy and played his nine spot.

At the other table East gave his partner a raise in hearts and West opened the six of hearts. South still made the hand, but it required a tremendous play, plus an error by West.

South ruffed the heart, played the ace of clubs and a club to dummy's king. Ruffed a second heart. Played a diamond to dummy's jack. Ruffed the last heart. Led a diamond to dummy's ace and played the deuce of spades. East played the five, South the nine and West the king.

Now if West led a fourth heart he would set the hand, but West led the four of spades. South let this come around to his jack, drew the last trump and claimed his contract.

Incidentally, this hand is taken from the finals of the 1960 World's championship matches and the next time you mis-defend a slam you can console yourself with the knowledge that West at the second table was a member of the World champion French team.

Town Board Will Issue Bonds for Building Expense

At the recent town board meeting, a resolution was passed to issue service bonds in the amount of $60,000 to help defray expenses for the new town building. The bonds will be payable in five years. The resolution, drawn up by Peter Harp, attorney, said that the maximum cost of the building is estimated at $75,000.

Letters of resignation were read from Mrs. Bruce Conklin, town welfare officer, and Ellsworth Buchan, assessor. Both become effective April 1. The resignations were received with regret. Supervisor Peter Savago, said that the board would probably hold a special meeting to make new appointments.

Town Superintendent Isaac Pole requested a new pick-up truck for the use of the highway department. He explained that the present one is seven years old and has been driven 100,000 miles. It needs a motor job and is rusty in places. The approximate cost of repair would be around $500, and it would still be an old vehicle.

The board agreed to advertise for bids on a new half-ton, four cylinder pick up truck with four wheel drive with the old truck to be taken in on trade. The bids are to be read at the next regular meeting April 12. Specifications will be available at the office of Theodore Lasher, town clerk.

James Nielson was appointed to the planning board for a seven year term which will expire Dec. 31, 1967. Nielson replaces Joseph Tantillo whose term expired last December. Nielson also acted as building inspector recently for Grant Sheeley while he was out of town.

Savago reported that the planning board, town board, and zoning board of appeals recently held a joint meeting to discuss the proposed changes in the town zoning ordinance. Justice of the Peace John Tenaglia explained that the changes would clarify the ordinance. One major change planned is to zone the south side of Route 209 from the village line to the Putt Corners Road for business. The north side of this section of road is already zoned for business and industry.

Under the term "home occupation," in the ordinance, the board plans to remove the examples now existing, which include art studio, dressmaking, antique shop, and professional offices.

Justice Tenaglia explained that removing these examples of what is permitted under home occupation will clear up confusion and will allow the zoning board of appeals to study each case on its own merits.

The board approved the acceptance of a new road, Millbrook Terrace, at the end of Prospect Street which was recommended by Peter Harp, town attorney.

Savago reported that the bill which would allow anyone living outside the village, but in the fire protection district, to be paid for a fire truck will be introduced by Peter Harp, town attorney.

Fewer Dry Beans

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department expects New York State Farmers will plant 91,000 acres of dry beans this year, a four per cent drop from the 1960 acreage.

The department, which announced Friday a farm survey of growers' plans as of March 1, said Upstate New York potato farmers would increase their acreage 6 per cent over last year, to 38,000 acres.

Long Island potato plantings may total 44,000 acres, or 2 per cent less than last year, the department said.

As you can see, the contract is very optimistic and can only be made if West opens a spade. Sure enough one West player did open the spade king. South won the trick with dummy's ace and eventually led a spade from dummy and played his nine spot.

New Basketball Scandal Expected to Dwarf 1951 Version

Charge 3 Cagers Accepted Bribes To Shave Points 2 Gamblers in Custody; 15 Schools Involved

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A smouldering college basketball scandal—one that would dwarf the scandals of 1951—threatened today to erupt on a nationwide scale.

Already three players have been accused of accepting bribes to shave points and two gamblers are in custody.

Police sources said that 15 to 20 schools from coast to coast might be involved in the scandal which has been under investigation five months.

"We expect it to be far bigger than the 1951 scandals," said one high official. "The investigation is continuing. Other schools and other players are the subject of inquiry."

A grand jury at that time found that 86 games had been fixed in 23 cities in seven states. Thirty-three players had been bribed.

Only two of the three players involved in the current scandal have been identified. Both play for Seton Hall. They are Henry Gunter, a center from New York, and Arthur Hicks, a forward from Chicago. Neither had any comment.

One player on the University of Connecticut team is involved, but neither the office of Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan, nor the university would name him.

"In fact," said a Connecticut official, "we are not sure just who the boy is. But we have a pretty good idea from the questioning by the district attorney."

Gamblers in Custody

The two gamblers in custody, described by Asst. Dist. Atty. Peter D. Andreoli as representing a nationwide syndicate, are Aaron Wagman, 28, Joseph Hacken, 41, both of New York. They are charged with bribery and conspiracy in an attempt to fix college games.

Two games are specifically mentioned in the charges. On Feb. 9, Dayton defeated Seton Hall, 112-77, and on March 1, Colgate defeated Connecticut, 83-71, of Hamilton, N.Y.

Andreoli said the two Seton Hall players each received $1,000 for their part in the game against Dayton, and the Connecticut player was paid $1,500 for his efforts against Colgate.

The puzzling aspect of the new scandal is that both Seton Hall and Connecticut were underdogs in the betting. Apparently what happened was that the fixers decided on a new strategy of making the underdog lose by an even greater margin than anticipated.

So-called point spreads are set on all games by a Midwest concern. Dayton, for example, was listed as a 6-point favorite over Seton Hall in one of the games involved. That meant that if a bettor chose to wager on Dayton, the team would have to win by six or more points for him to collect.

Actually, there were suspicions at the time, and bookmakers—who usually are the heavy losers in such actions—finally refused to take any bets on the game. They, too, were suspicious.

Seton Hall Coach Richie Regan said he had no reason to suspect anything was wrong in the game. "I just attributed it to a bad night," he commented. "It's hard to tell when a player is not doing his best or just having an off game."

Connecticut Coach Hugh Greer also was bewildered.

"I don't understand how a club like ours could be involved," he said. "It might have been possible that gamblers might be interested in one of our better clubs, but not this one."

Murtaugh Sure Pittsburgh Can Repeat in 1961

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

FORT MEYERS, Fla. (AP)—Danny Murtaugh turned to welcome the Pittsburgh camp visitor and remarked dryly: "Do the Yankees still think they won the World Series?"

Don Hoak, the fiery third baseman overheard the remark.

"I understand they've been crying all winter that the better team lost the series," he said.

"Well, you can tell them for me they're not only the worst World Series team I ever saw but the poorest sports.... We'd have won it in four straight if we weren't for injuries...."

Murtaugh, who earned the manager of the year award by leading the Pirates to their first flag in 33 years, nodded in agreement.

"The fellows are determined to win it again," he said. "They're out to prove they're no one-shot champs."

Last spring, after the Pirates'

Fourth place finish in 1959, Murtaugh pointed out that too many players had bad seasons at the same time and said it couldn't possibly happen two years in succession. So it was pointed out to the Pirates that nearly all of the Pirates enjoyed good seasons in 1960 and was it reasonable to expect them to repeat?

Nothing Exceptional

"I don't agree that all had outstanding seasons," he said. "I would say only Dick Groat had a better than normal year. He never hit as high as .325 before.

On the other hand, Bob Skinner normally a .325 to .330 hitter, batted only .273. Look at the rest.

Hoak, Bob Clemente, Bill Virdon,

Bill Mazeroski, Smoky Burgess, Hal Smith.... All hit about as expected. None of them had an exceptional year. Not one hit as high as .300. I think all of them are capable of doing better. Dick Stuart hit 23 homers and drove in 83 runs playing part time. He should do better if he gets to play consistently."

The team will be virtually the same that won the 1960 flag by seven games. The only openings may be on the pitching staff and on the bench. Bobby Shantz, the little left-hander acquired in a trade with Washington, will be used strictly in relief.

Murtaugh has four solid starters in Vern Law (20-9), Bob Friend (18-12), Vinegar Bend Mizell (14-8) and Harvey Haddix (11-10). He is trying to find a fifth starter among Tom Cheney, Jim Umbricht, Joe Gibbon, Red Witt and Curt Raydon. The last two have been bothered by sore arms. The best of the pitching recruits has been a 6-foot-6, 21-year-old right-hander named Tom Parsons, who was 12-7 at Salt Lake City last year.

"If they win the pennant again this year, we'll beat 'em again. I don't know about them but we'll win again. You can bank on that."

Murtaugh, who earned the manager of the year award by leading the Pirates to their first flag in 33 years, nodded in agreement.

"The fellows are determined to win it again," he said. "They're out to prove they're no one-shot champs."

Last spring, after the Pirates'

fourth place finish in 1959, Murtaugh pointed out that too many players had bad seasons at the same time and said it couldn't possibly happen two years in succession. So it was pointed out to the Pirates that nearly all of the Pirates enjoyed good seasons in 1960 and was it reasonable to expect them to repeat?

Nothing Exceptional

"I don't agree that all had outstanding seasons," he said. "I would say only Dick Groat had a better than normal year. He never hit as high as .325 before.

On the other hand, Bob Skinner normally a .325 to .330 hitter, batted only .273. Look at the rest.

Hoak, Bob Clemente, Bill Virdon,

Bill Mazeroski, Smoky Burgess, Hal Smith.... All hit about as expected. None of them had an exceptional year. Not one hit as high as .300. I think all of them are capable of doing better. Dick Stuart hit 23 homers and drove in 83 runs playing part time. He should do better if he gets to play consistently."

The team will be virtually the same that won the 1960 flag by seven games. The only openings may be on the pitching staff and on the bench. Bobby Shantz, the little left-hander acquired in a trade with Washington, will be used strictly in relief.

Murtaugh has four solid starters in Vern Law (20-9), Bob Friend (18-12), Vinegar Bend Mizell (14-8) and Harvey Haddix (11-10). He is trying to find a fifth starter among Tom Cheney, Jim Umbricht, Joe Gibbon, Red Witt and Curt Raydon. The last two have been bothered by sore arms. The best of the pitching recruits has been a 6-foot-6, 21-year-old right-hander named Tom Parsons, who was 12-7 at Salt Lake City last year.

State Commerce Head Welcomes New Ravena Firm

ALBANY — State Commerce Commissioner Keith S. McHugh today welcomed to "New York State's growing family of industry" the new Atlantic Cement Company which will build a $64 million cement plant—the largest on the Atlantic coast—at Ravena, on the Hudson River 12 miles south of Albany.

Announcement of the project was made in New York City today by American and Canadian interests which have formed the new company.

In his message to Robert P.

Koenig, president, Cerro Corporation and Plato Malozemoff, president, Newmont Mining Company, at their New York City headquarters, Commissioner McHugh expressed pleasure that the State Commerce Department had been able to assist in the project and extended his best wishes for its success.

His message follows:

"A hearty welcome to New York State's constantly growing family of industry for the new Atlantic Cement Company, being formed by Cerro Corporation and Newmont Mining Corporation to conduct the largest East Coast cement mill at Ravena. The State Commerce Department staff is delighted to have been of service to your new enterprise which offers such great promise to the entire area. We will continue to be on call for any further assistance we may be able to give.

"Congratulations and best wishes for the success of this magnificent undertaking."

Trades Council Is For Plumber Code

The Building and Construction Trades Council, with membership in Ulster, Sullivan, Delaware and Greene counties, at recent meeting, backed the local plumbing board in enforcement of the plumbing code, it was reported today.

It asked that the state code as adopted by the city and dealing with installation of plumbing applicable to connection with water and sewer lines, be enforced in the "best interest of residents of the city."

Fashions Not Amusing

MUENSTER, Germany (AP)—A Muenstein court ruled Thursday that a fashion show—no matter how pretty the girls or how pleasant the accompanying music—doesn't qualify as amusement. The court upheld a textile firm that appealed a city amusement tax levied on its annual style show.

Veterans' Rights, Benefits Listed

By Charles L. Culver, NYS Veteran Counselor of NYS Division of Veterans Affairs and John B. Tyler, Director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency.

Legislation — Hearings have started on a G.I. Bill of Rights for peacetime veterans with service after January 31, 1955 before the Veterans Subcommittee of the United States Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee. S. 349, a peacetime G.I. Bill of Rights, which has been introduced in the Senate and which is under consideration, would provide educational and training benefits and G.I. home loans. The service qualifications would be a minimum of six months active duty after January 31, 1955. Veterans who qualified would be granted 1½ days of educational or training benefits for each day of service. Eligible veterans would receive subsistence allowances and partial tuition during periods that educational and training benefits were being used. The G.I. home loan provisions are similar to those which are in effect under the Korean G.I. Bill. A G.I. Bill of Rights, H.R. 1966, is also under consideration in the United States House of Representatives Veterans Affairs Committee. The intent of this bill is also to provide educational, training and loan benefits for peacetime veterans. The House version of the peacetime G.I. Bill would only require 90 days service to establish eligibility. It would grant only one day of education or training benefits for each day of service. The subsistence allowances, tuition provisions and G.I. loan provisions, however, are just about the same in both the Senate and House versions of a peacetime G.I. Bill. It is expected that the House Veterans Committee will consider the House version of the peacetime G.I. Bill after the hearings on the Senate version have been completed.

Tax Exemption — A verified application for real property tax exemption may be filed with local boards of assessors on or before grievance day. It is advisable, nevertheless, to submit applications a reasonable time in advance of grievance day to allow time for their consideration and processing by the Board of Assessors.

In his message to Robert P. Koenig, president, Cerro Corporation and Plato Malozemoff, president, Newmont Mining Company, at their New York City headquarters, Commissioner McHugh expressed pleasure that the State Commerce Department had been able to assist in the project and extended his best wishes for its success.

True Ranch Appearance

The first big step toward breaking the severity of such a plan was the addition of a breezeway-connected garage to give "The Clinton" the true appearance of a modern ranch type dwelling. Right here, it should be mentioned, the economy factor gets prime consideration. For while the garage and breezeway definitely enhance the outward appearance, they still are not considered a must.

Following the accepted theory that straight-line construction is the least expensive, they settled on the rectangle for basic design. But nowhere did they let severity of line get in the way of imaginative detail. This is a home that has many features often found in a structure of more elaborate design.

Good Wall Space

The living room, even with a fireplace and the window wall overlooking the front entrance planter, has fine wall space for furniture placement, thanks to careful location of the entrance from the vestibule and the doorway to the kitchen.

"The Clinton" boasts of comfortable bedrooms with windows located for maximum ventilation, and each has spacious wardrobes equipped with sliding doors. The bath, situated between the rear bedroom and the kitchen is ideally located for over-all use.

This house can be constructed with or without a basement and in the latter choice the space occupied by the stairway becomes a heater room. With a basement, the cubage is 18,500 cubic feet; without a basement, 15,600 cubic feet.

Using the accompanying coupon, you can obtain complete blueprints at a reasonable cost. With them you will receive material lists which will be of great value in discussing cost estimates with your builder.

Now's the Time To See Winter Damage to Home

Painting your house, whether you do it yourself, should take some thought and investigation before going ahead with the job. There are all sorts of new paints on the market. Some of them are good.

The kind of exterior walls, whether wood or masonry, or synthetic or asphalt or asbestos and cement, may take different types of paint. In any case, be sure that the paint in the container is high class, suitable, and is made by a recognized manufacturer with a long-standing reputation.

A paint job, done right, should last three or more years. If the condition of the walls are good, the paint is good, then you can expect this kind of wear.

Effect of Limed Oak

If you like a limed oak effect, take one pound of unslaked lime into two quarts of water. Rub the lime across the grain of the wood. When partially dry, wipe off across the grain to remove the excess lime. Seal with two thin coats of white shellac and finish with a thin coating of paraffin wax.

Economy in Simple Lines Without Sacrifice of Charm

By Associated Architects

Simple lines and economy are inseparable companions in the matter of home building. But there is no rule that says that the sum total of the two has to be reckoned in terms of sacrifice of essentials or the added touches that give a dwelling charm.

For evidence you have only to study today's Architects Home Design, "The Clinton." The designers set out to plan a house that would solve the problem posed by a prospective home owner with definite limits on how much he could afford for a home.

Within, conventional designing has made the most of the 850 square feet of living space. Actually this is a four-room-and-bath plan, but careful attention to the space available in the kitchen provides five-room function. The secret is the allotment of the outside window-corner as a dining alcove. While the living room is large enough to accommodate dining furniture, the alcove off the kitchen is certain to be the family choice from a standpoint of atmosphere and saving.

The peninsula extension of the counter space provides just the right amount of separation between the alcove and the working area of the kitchen.

fresh mortar with a trowel. Again, keep damp.

Look over wooden siding for warped or split boards that might need replacement. Peeling paint should be scraped off and the surface repainted.

Gutters bear the brunt of winter's severest weather. Heavy loads of ice and snow may have caused them to sag. This is serious.

Water that doesn't drain properly toward the downspout spills over and dampens walls. Renailing the hangers, perhaps adding one or two, will generally solve the problem.

That patio made of bricks and blocks laid in a bed of sand may not look too even now. Cold weather may have caused several of the blocks to heave. Lift out these and surrounding blocks and spread the sand beneath them.

Wait until a dry day comes along to do this. If weeds or other small plants are growing up between the blocks, pull them out now before they turn into small trees tearing everything apart.

Roof shingles may have blown loose or become broken. Pick a good calm day and nail shingles with broad head roofing nails. Put a dab of asphalt on the nail head afterward. A cracked shingle can be nailed down and sealed with roof coating.

Seams in roll roofing may have become loose or curled. A fresh seam of roof coating and a few nails will usually put things in shape again.

Easy Insulation

Mineral wool insulation in "pouring wool" form can be used by home-owners who want to insulate an attic floor themselves.

Pouring wool comes in paper bags that are light and easy to handle. The mineral wool is simply poured out of the bags into spaces between the attic floor joists and smoothed to an even depth of at least four inches.

Keep Home Nearby

A knife sharpener kept handy will speed and ease the job of installing batts and blankets of mineral wool insulation. Cutting through this insulation will dull the blade quickly, since mineral wool is made of rock or mineral silicas heated to liquid form and transformed into millions of fibers.

Linseed Oil Can Be Work Horse Around the House

By Mr. Fix

One way to spot a real pro among handymen is to notice how many uses he finds for linseed oil.

Linseed oil is available in both raw and boiled form. Raw linseed oil can take up to four days to dry after applying it. The boiled product dries quickly, is often used in turpentine or other thinners.

Before using either form for thinning paint check the manufacturer's instructions. Linseed oil is often used to turn ordinary house paint into a primer coat.

You can also use raw linseed oil become too hard to work with. Add the oil and work it into the putty until it's pliable.

Use boiled linseed oil for all the other jobs mentioned here.

New Brushes

Before dipping a new brush in paint, soak the bristles in linseed oil for 24 hours. You'll find the brush more pliable, easier to use.

Linseed oil is one of the oldest and best wood preservatives. Brush the oil on unpainted fence pickets and posts every year. Wipe it on garden tool handles to keep them from drying out.

Never paint a ladder since you'll never be able to tell what defects are developing underneath. Use linseed oil.

Furniture

Mix two parts of linseed oil to one part of turpentine and you have an excellent preservative and polish. Apply to outdoor furniture and rub in until dry.

Use the oil-turpentine mixture right over your painted window sills to preserve them. Apply it to screen doors, screens and windows to help them withstand the weather.

Who Says That Animals Are Dumb?

A Tennessee dog likes ice cream. When he went into a drug store with his master, the druggist gave a cup of ice cream to the dog. When he had licked the cup clean, the dog carefully picked up the cup and carried it to the counter. Holding the cup in his mouth, the dog stood up on his hind legs and waited till he got more. Who says dogs are dumb?

A cat liked where he was living, and didn't want to leave when the owner closed the shop. So the cat lived alone in the shop for eight years. Twice a day the master brought cat food over to the vacant building, so the cat even had cafeteria service!

Dogs can sense when there is danger. A mongrel dog in Aylesbury, England, saw a cat fall into a brook and heard its piteous meows. The dog jumped in, paddled to the cat which was struggling weakly, grabbed it by the scruff of the neck in the approved human fashion, and brought it safely ashore.

Two pet raccoons which had lived from infancy in a cage, broke out one day and were gone six weeks. No one knows where they went; but they returned to their original owners. Maybe they liked it better than being loose in the wild, having to forage for their own food. And they call animals dumb!

Build Your Own Frog Aquarium

Perhaps there is nothing more interesting than watching tadpoles change into frogs. And what a wonderful learning adventure this experience is! Why you can almost see the tadpoles grow legs!

To set up an exciting experiment place a dozen tadpoles in an aquarium or a large wide-mouthed glass jar. But before you bring them to their new home, arrange stones in the jar so that the water is deeper at one end than the other and some stones show above it.

Put in the jar, also, some of the plants growing under water where the tadpoles were living. They like to eat the algae on the plants.

Later the tadpoles will enjoy bits of lettuce floated on the water.

After the tadpoles have changed into frogs they will begin to sit out in the air on the stones. Then they're ready to be turned loose.

Or, if you want to keep them, place them in a terrarium and feed them meal worms, bits of hamburger, and insects.

Circus Is Always Around For Kids of This Town

Circus lovers who live in Beatrice, Neb., are lucky. In Beatrice it's circus day every day. This is because a retired circus performer keeps his pet elephant, Rosa, in his backyard.

Grade schoolers on their way home from school stop and Rosa gives them a ride. She does tricks for them too.

Rosa weighs more than almost all the pupils in a single classroom — 3,800 pounds. She is 14 years old.

Owner of the friendly elephant is a retired circus performer named Willard Bitting. Rosa and her master put on circus acts for the children.

As far as is known Rosa is the only elephant who lives in Nebraska all year. She does not like the freezing winters.

Her master bought her from a zookeeper in Prairie du Chien, Wis. He thought she would be a nice and interesting pet to have around the home. He has few dull moments with Rosa.

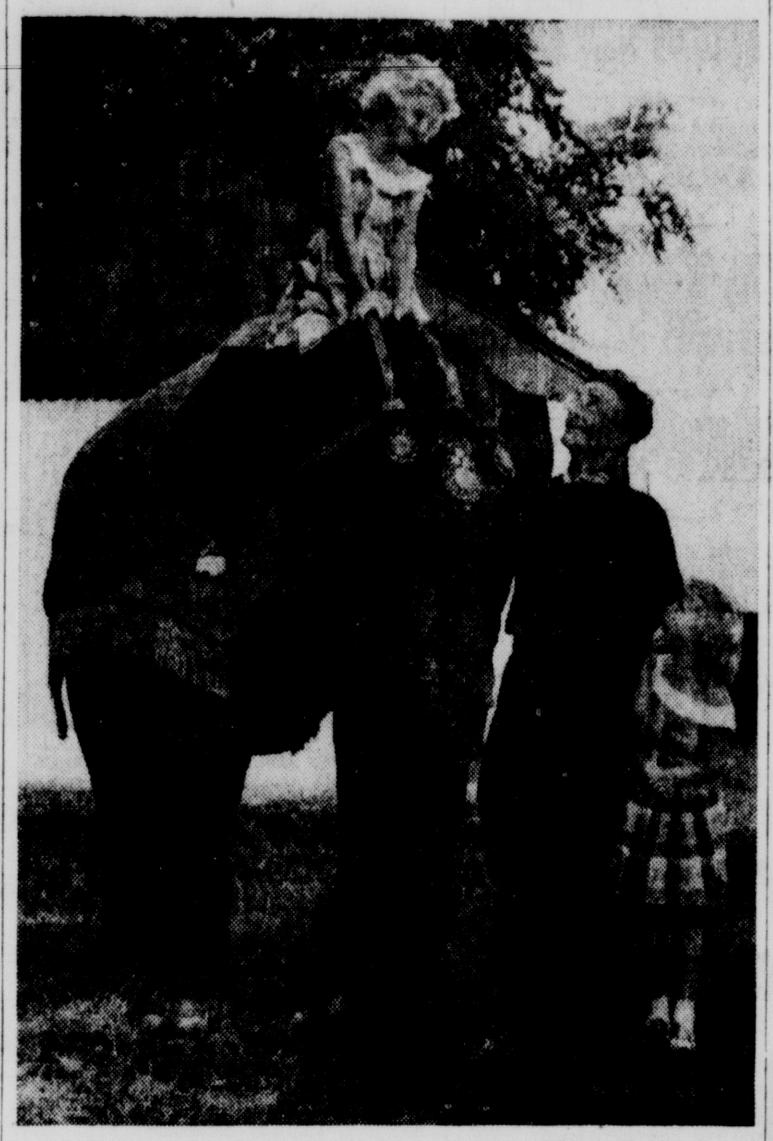

Every single day Rosa eats more than 100 pounds of hay, oats and corn. Mr. Bitting gives her 25 gallons of warm water each day.

He also gives neighborhood boys a chance to practice carrying water to the elephant. The elephant uses part of the water for drinking and some for bathing.

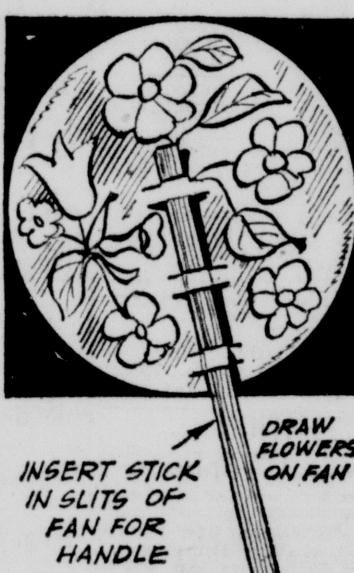

She cost Mr. Bitting as much as a new auto to buy.

To neighborhood children and pupils at the nearby elementary school Beatrice, is a city where the circus doesn't come to town. It is already there.

Here is an easy fan to make. All you will need is a circle of cardboard as large as you wish your fan to be, and a straight stick, pencil, or ruler, for the handle.

Cut the round piece of cardboard by using a plate or pot lid for a pattern. With your crayons decorate your fan by drawing flowers all over it. Or, you could cut flowers from a seed catalogue to paste on.

After your fan has been decorated, lace the handle through short slits you cut in the cardboard. Let the handle reach all the way to the center of the fan; this makes the fan stronger and keeps it from bending when in use.

THE BOAT-HULL-ON-WHEELS MODEL, SHOWN BELOW, IS A HANDCRAFTED, BRITISH CONTRIBUTION TO CONFUSION. THE SKIPPER DROPS AN ANCHOR WHEN HE PARKS.

STEVENS PLANNED THIS SPORTY BOAT—AND THE INFLUENCE IS OBVIOUS.
WHILE REAR FINS ARE NO LONGER NOVELTIES ON BOATS, THESE SET A NEW HIGH, WITH RACY WINDSCREENS AND LUXURIOUS BUCKET SEATS, THE PRICE IS $11,000.

Continuing its theme of "Know Your Schools," the Saugerties Parent Teacher Association meeting held Thursday evening at Saugerties High School was concerned with "The School Lunch Program—Its Values and Its Functions."

Mrs. Helen Diehl, associate in the school lunch program of the New York State Department of Education, discussed the history and functions of the school lunch program. In tracing the history of the growth of the program, Mrs. Diehl said that in earlier times local groups which were concerned with malnutrition in children helped to prepare hot lunches for them.

In 1946 Congress established the school lunch program on a national basis by providing funds for its support. New York State supplements federal funds with state funds thus enabling over 4000 schools in the state to participate in the program. Nationally there is a 31 per cent average of student participation in the lunch program; in Saugerties the average is over 34 per cent.

By means of slides Mrs. Diehl showed typical menus in the lunch program and illustrated their nutritional value. She also pointed out that it is cheaper for a student to buy a properly balanced lunch at school than to bring one from home.

Patrick Rodden, business manager, said that the total cash receipts for the Saugerties Central School lunches in 1959-1960 was $90,320. Over 158,000 lunches were served including some free ones for needy children. In the food budget, 56¢ goes for food and the remainder for labor. The program pays its way in the Saugerties schools.

Margarita appears in the series with Troy Donahue, Van Williams and Lee Patterson, who are red-blooded, male and American, yet there is no hint of romance between them and her. How come?

"I don't know," said Margarita disappointedly. "There doesn't seem to be any time for romance with Fort Liedot when the Algerian rebels leave."

May Lucien Flamand, with council approval, sent an appeal to the justice minister, asking the government to maintain the fort as a penitentiary. The island leaders deplored a proposed scheme to turn the fort into a "vacation colony" for children.

"We prefer the prisoners," the mayor said. "At least, they are quiet, and moreover, nobody ever sees them. And counting only the prison guards, a prison is good for business."

"As for children, they mess things up everywhere, and steal from all the orchards."

"It's really a simple explanation—yet one which is completely unbelievable," said Ken Morton, attorney for Mrs. Esther Hazel Delaney, a 53-year-old Indiana woman employed at Cape Canaveral as a secretary.

She is free under $3,000 bond on a first degree murder charge, pending a grand jury hearing March 27, into the fatal shooting of Thomas J. Delaney, 59, in October 1959.

He went past the school when he saw a police car following him. Mike's car came to a halt against a fireplug. He burst into tears when the policeman approached. Mike is only 7.
